

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

Jim Sunseri signed up for the Lay Pastor training “after finally listening to God calling me several times in the past.” In his own reflections, he admits, “I always felt I couldn't do it, even though many others said I could.”

After being asked by his own pastor (CLP Bill Lawson) to both preach and lead worship, the affirmation of those in the congregation finally convinced him to enroll in the classes (providentially, they were to begin a few weeks later).

Upon completion of the preparation program, he continued to lead worship at his home congregation until he was “called” to serve the Bethel and later, the Bolivar congregation as well.

Now, fifteen years later, Jim describes this response as “probably the best decision of my life !” He remarks, “I've learned to worry less and to trust God more!! This has increased my faith and encourages me to do other types of ministry that otherwise might worry me.”

With 12 Ruling Elders commissioned by Redstone Presbytery to serve 17 congregations, these leaders have provided valuable pastoral care for many years. Currently, Redstone Presbytery has joined together with Washington and Upper Ohio Valley in the Inter-Presbytery Leadership Formation program to prepare the next group of Ruling Elders to be commissioned in pastoral service.

Communicate the Word...Carry on the Work...Change the World
Together!

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

Jim Sunseri signed up for the Lay Pastor training “after finally listening to God calling me several times in the past.” In his own reflections, he admits, “I always felt I couldn't do it, even though many others said I could.”

After being asked by his own pastor (CLP Bill Lawson) to both preach and lead worship, the affirmation of those in the congregation finally convinced him to enroll in the classes (providentially, they were to begin a few weeks later).

Upon completion of the preparation program, he continued to lead worship at his home congregation until he was “called” to serve the Bethel and later, the Bolivar congregation as well.

Now, fifteen years later, Jim describes this response as “probably the best decision of my life !” He remarks, “I've learned to worry less and to trust God more!! This has increased my faith and encourages me to do other types of ministry that otherwise might worry me.”

With 12 Ruling Elders commissioned by Redstone Presbytery to serve 17 congregations, these leaders have provided valuable pastoral care for many years. Currently, Redstone Presbytery has joined together with Washington and Upper Ohio Valley in the Inter-Presbytery Leadership Formation program to prepare the next group of Ruling Elders to be commissioned in pastoral service.

Communicate the Word...Carry on the Work...Change the World
Together!