

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

In 1990, James Calvin Davis began the Preparation for Ministry process as a member of the Colver Presbyterian Church. Under the “care” of Redstone, he completed his studies at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond (M.Div.) and at University of Virginia(Ph.D). Ordained by this Presbytery (1997), he became pastor at a Presbyterian Church in Virginia. In 2001, called to be a professor at Middlebury College, he was received into Albany Presbytery.

Recently, Dr. Davis was elected by the GA to serve on the Presbytery Cooperative Committee for Examination of Candidates. The “PCC” prepares the standard ordination exams for the PC(USA) that assess the readiness of future pastoral leadership. There, he reconnected with another “Redstone person.” Rev. Marnie Silbert of Newlonsburg who serves the PCC as chair of the Polity task force and just so happens, was the chair of our CPM during James’ years of preparation. Thus, bringing the connection “full circle.” In addition to this service, Redstone Presbytery annually elects ordination exam readers. This year, Rev Vickery, Elder Lynn Mance (Delmont), Rev Foust, and Ray Edelman (Irwin) served the Presbytery, the PCUSA and our future leadership.

An educated clergy has been a hallmark of Presbyterianism. Yet, God’s call is often surprising leading people at different times in their lives to undergo this preparation to serve. Someone reading this may be feeling God’s stirring in them to inquire if Ministry of Word and Sacrament is God’s call on their life. If so, contact your pastor or contact the Presbytery. You never know where it might lead.

Communicate the Word...Carry on the Work...Change the World
Together!

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

In 1990, James Calvin Davis began the Preparation for Ministry process as a member of the Colver Presbyterian Church. Under the “care” of Redstone, he completed his studies at Union Theological Seminary, Richmond (M.Div.) and at University of Virginia(Ph.D). Ordained by this Presbytery (1997), he became pastor at a Presbyterian Church in Virginia. In 2001, called to be a professor at Middlebury College, he was received into Albany Presbytery.

Recently, Dr. Davis was elected by the GA to serve on the Presbytery Cooperative Committee for Examination of Candidates. The “PCC” prepares the standard ordination exams for the PC(USA) that assess the readiness of future pastoral leadership. There, he reconnected with another “Redstone person.” Rev. Marnie Silbert of Newlonsburg who serves the PCC as chair of the Polity task force and just so happens, was the chair of our CPM during James’ years of preparation. Thus, bringing the connection “full circle.” In addition to this service, Redstone Presbytery annually elects ordination exam readers. This year, Rev Vickery, Elder Lynn Mance (Delmont), Rev Foust, and Ray Edelman (Irwin) served the Presbytery, the PCUSA and our future leadership.

An educated clergy has been a hallmark of Presbyterianism. Yet, God’s call is often surprising leading people at different times in their lives to undergo this preparation to serve. Someone reading this may be feeling God’s stirring in them to inquire if Ministry of Word and Sacrament is God’s call on their life. If so, contact your pastor or contact the Presbytery. You never know where it might lead.

Communicate the Word...Carry on the Work...Change the World
Together!