

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

Before Rev. Lee McDermott came to McClellandtown Presbyterian Church, he had never served a church with its own cemetery. The cemetery manager, Bo McCahill helped him think about the ministry opportunities, particularly as he described his own calling to serve God helping families as they lay their loved ones to rest.

“Many families come to visit the grave sites; they have stories & histories that began here. I get the honor to hear their stories and help make the connection between their history and faith. I often conduct graveside committal services for people who moved out-of-state and wished to be buried in the place where they first came to live. So many of these stories are connected to one another.

“We get to honor veterans buried in our cemetery. We have a Revolutionary War soldier who served as the personal secretary to George Washington. Each May, the local high school’s JROTC helps us prepare the cemetery for Memorial Day weekend, placing American flags on each veteran’s grave. Each Memorial Day weekend the church joins the local American Legion and VFW as they conduct a ceremony in honor of all those veterans buried here. We post both events on our Facebook page which gets more views than anything else.”

Visit redstonetogether.blogspot.com for an expanded version of this Redstone Story and to share your thoughts and ideas.

Communicate the Word...Carry on the Work...
Change the World ...Together!

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

Before Rev. Lee McDermott came to McClellandtown Presbyterian Church, he had never served a church with its own cemetery. The cemetery manager, Bo McCahill helped him think about the ministry opportunities, particularly as he described his own calling to serve God helping families as they lay their loved ones to rest.

“Many families come to visit the grave sites; they have stories & histories that began here. I get the honor to hear their stories and help make the connection between their history and faith. I often conduct graveside committal services for people who moved out-of-state and wished to be buried in the place where they first came to live. So many of these stories are connected to one another.

“We get to honor veterans buried in our cemetery. We have a Revolutionary War soldier who served as the personal secretary to George Washington. Each May, the local high school’s JROTC helps us prepare the cemetery for Memorial Day weekend, placing American flags on each veteran’s grave. Each Memorial Day weekend the church joins the local American Legion and VFW as they conduct a ceremony in honor of all those veterans buried here. We post both events on our Facebook page which gets more views than anything else.”

Visit redstonetogether.blogspot.com for an expanded version of this Redstone Story and to share your thoughts and ideas.

Communicate the Word...Carry on the Work...
Change the World ...Together!