

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

In 2001 Marcie was diagnosed with Remitting Multiple Sclerosis. As the secretary at Union Presbyterian Church, she struggled to work while dealing with numbness in her hands and feet, blurred vision, and constant fatigue. She was taking weekly shots that left her with flu-like side effects for several days.

Invited to a healing service as part of the Presbytery meeting, she was hesitant, but decided to go. Rev. Carole Isley Corey talked and prayed with Marcie for healing. Marcie left feeling physically the same, but spiritually uplifted. She went home and looked up Scripture passages on praying through the Spirit.

Marcie took her next weekly shot, but she worse than ever. She called the doctor who ordered an MRI of the brain and made an appointment to see her.

When she went to that appointment the women in the office were smiling at her, but they were teary eyed. When the doctor came in the examining room, his eyes were shiny. Marcie prepared herself for bad news. The doctor said, in 25 years he had never been able to say this to a patient; her MS was benign. He showed her the MRI. All lesions in her brain were gone. He could not believe it. He told her it would never get worse and the symptoms she had experienced were the ever experience.

He asked her what she was doing differently. She told him about Carole praying for her. He smiled and had the good grace not to show any signs of doubt. Within 2 weeks of stopping the shots all the side effects were gone. She was feeling great. It has been over 12 years since the healing team prayed for her. She still shows no signs of MS. Today Marcie works fulltime and is lead singer in the Christian Band "Risen to Save".

According to Jim Farrer, "The Healing Prayer Team tries to be obedient, create a space and pray with folks. The person may ask for relief of knee pain and maybe that doesn't happen at this time, but the LORD always brings something: perhaps a sense of forgiveness or peace or they find more intimacy in prayer."

Communicate the Word... Carry on the Work... Change the World Together!

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

In 2001 Marcie was diagnosed with Remitting Multiple Sclerosis. As the secretary at Union Presbyterian Church, she struggled to work while dealing with numbness in her hands and feet, blurred vision, and constant fatigue. She was taking weekly shots that left her with flu-like side effects for several days.

Invited to a healing service as part of the Presbytery meeting, she was hesitant, but decided to go. Rev. Carole Isley Corey talked and prayed with Marcie for healing. Marcie left feeling physically the same, but spiritually uplifted. She went home and looked up Scripture passages on praying through the Spirit.

Marcie took her next weekly shot, but she worse than ever. She called the doctor who ordered an MRI of the brain and made an appointment to see her.

When she went to that appointment the women in the office were smiling at her, but they were teary eyed. When the doctor came in the examining room, his eyes were shiny. Marcie prepared herself for bad news. The doctor said, in 25 years he had never been able to say this to a patient; her MS was benign. He showed her the MRI. All lesions in her brain were gone. He could not believe it. He told her it would never get worse and the symptoms she had experienced were the ever experience.

He asked her what she was doing differently. She told him about Carole praying for her. He smiled and had the good grace not to show any signs of doubt. Within 2 weeks of stopping the shots all the side effects were gone. She was feeling great. It has been over 12 years since the healing team prayed for her. She still shows no signs of MS. Today Marcie works fulltime and is lead singer in the Christian Band "Risen to Save".

According to Jim Farrer, "The Healing Prayer Team tries to be obedient, create a space and pray with folks. The person may ask for relief of knee pain and maybe that doesn't happen at this time, but the LORD always brings something: perhaps a sense of forgiveness or peace or they find more intimacy in prayer."

Communicate the Word... Carry on the Work... Change the World Together!