

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

As Presbyterians, we often affirm our connectedness to one another as a “hallmark” of the way we understand what it means to serve our Lord Jesus Christ. This is true whether it is the connections in our local congregations, in the Presbytery, across presbyteries, the Synod, and in our biennial gathering called the General Assembly.

Of course, being connected in theory is one thing, but in person is another. From September 22-24, Redstone Presbytery was privileged to host Rev. Cindy Kohlmann one of the Co-Moderators of the 223rd General Assembly. Traveling throughout our Presbytery, she preached in a congregation, observed ministry with exceptional citizens, participated in an ESL course and even visited the Fred Rogers Center.

Culminating all of her experiences in the region was worship leadership and preaching at our joint Redstone-Washington Presbytery meeting. Her personal presence exemplified the Word proclaimed that we are “Interwoven.” For together, we constitute one body, the Presbyterian Church (USA).

Communicate the Word... Carry on the Work... Change the World Together!

Stories of Redstone

Christ at work in our midst

As Presbyterians, we often affirm our connectedness to one another as a “hallmark” of the way we understand what it means to serve our Lord Jesus Christ. This is true whether it is the connections in our local congregations, in the Presbytery, across presbyteries, the Synod, and in our biennial gathering called the General Assembly.

Of course, being connected in theory is one thing, but in person is another. From September 22-24, Redstone Presbytery was privileged to host Rev. Cindy Kohlmann one of the Co-Moderators of the 223rd General Assembly. Traveling throughout our Presbytery, she preached in a congregation, observed ministry with exceptional citizens, participated in an ESL course and even visited the Fred Rogers Center.

Culminating all of her experiences in the region was worship leadership and preaching at our joint Redstone-Washington Presbytery meeting. Her personal presence exemplified the Word proclaimed that we are “Interwoven.” For together, we constitute one body, the Presbyterian Church (USA).

Communicate the Word... Carry on the Work... Change the World Together!